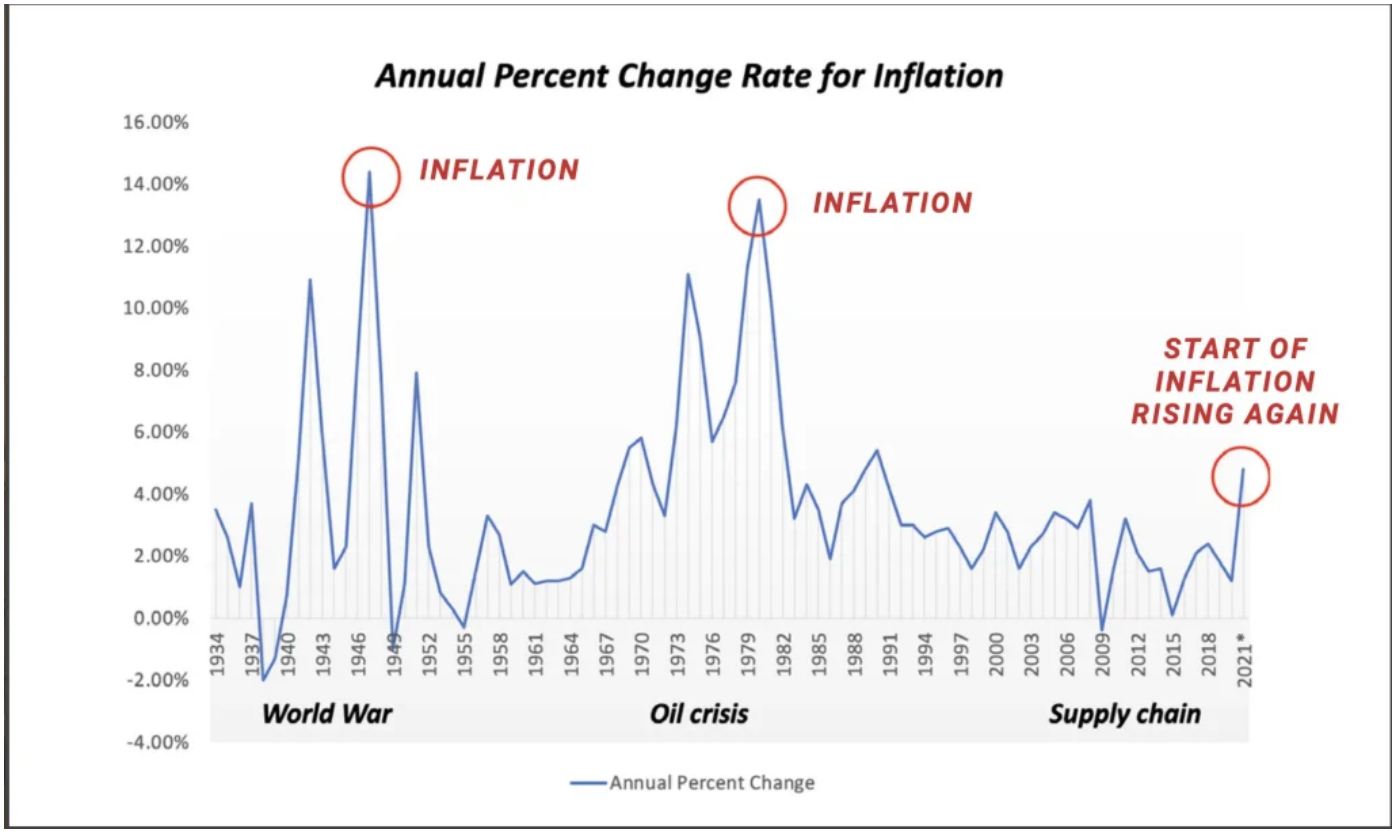
Preparing Manufacturing Operations for the Next Black Swan

Date: 17.11.2021
Author: admin



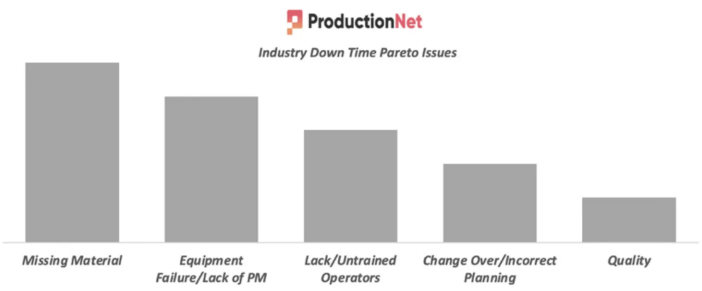
Are you prepared for another Black Swan event? As the world supply chain tightens and inflation rises, industry leaders may ask themselves what strategies and actions should they take to increase their operational efficiency. See below for the inflation observations compiled by Seraph and the industry-wide downtime breakdown provided by ProductionNet for more insight.

Industry leaders may ask themselves…

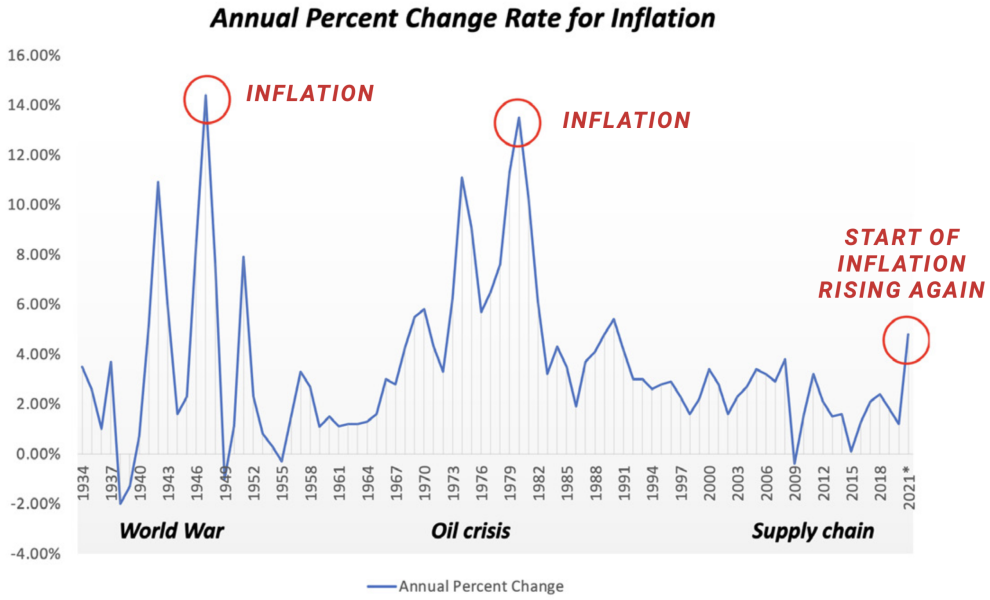
“What strategy and real actions should I be taking to increase my operational efficiency?”

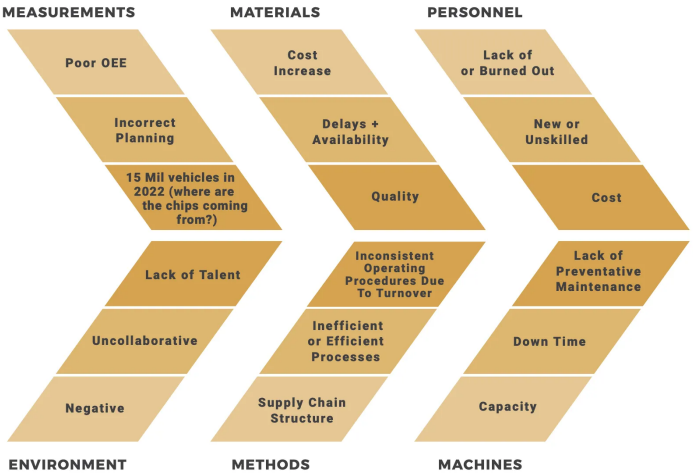
“How am I securing supply and minimizing surprises?”

“What plan of action do I have in place if 2022 is more of the same or worse?”



Production.net software shows typical industry downtime. 2022 will be one of the toughest years in automotive industry because we do not see the chips and supply chain issues resolved.





THE PROBLEM:

Lack of OEM Production

Supplier Bankruptcies